ENCOUNTER

FOREWORD

Life assumes meaning where God encounters man. Encounter with God is mediated through life experiences. These experiences help to bridge the gap between the finite and the infinite.

Canadian Mennonite Bible College has provided the sphere for an encounter between God and man in these past months. It is this experience which we wish to portray in these pages.

DEDICATION

TO GEORGE AND ESTHER WIEBE

Expression through music affords an avenue for encounter with God. We are deeply indebted to those who have dedicated themselves to the furtherance of sacred music, and who have shaped our music department at CMBC. We dedicate this student annual to Mr. and Mrs. George D. Wiebe. Through unstinted service and sincere devotion they have enriched the lives of all students with whom they have come into contact.

CONTEXT FOR ENCOUNTER

Encounter with God occurs in the Church. There our faith is nurtured. There it finds meaning. The Church is the unifying force in Christianity.

CMBC is a servant arm of the Church. While we are here, it becomes the Church for us. The activities listed in the various sections of this book are functions of the Church.

ENCOUNTER WITH PERSONS

God created man for relationship with persons.

Truth about the meaning of life is conveyed to us through such relationships.

"Koinonia" is vital for life at CMBC.

VALEDICTORY

We have reached a milestone in our life. Perhaps the road signs point only one or two steps ahead. We will take those steps into the future. Through our encounters here we have experienced some of that freedom needed to obey God's call. We know that we have studied, discussed and lived at college only to be sent out to share our testimony with others. Our talents are various and we will use them in various places. We are confident that our God will go with us.

DIALOGUE

WORD FROM THE PRESIDENT

HENRY POETTCKER, A.B., B.D., Th.D.
President
Adviser to Student Council

The many encounters which students have during the course of the year ought to impress them with the values therein contained. May this annual serve to remind each one of the value of trusting God, of relating to a brother and of continuing in personal maturity. Then each one of the encounters depicted here will have served its purpose.

INTELLECTUAL ENCOUNTER

Intellectual encounter with God nourishes a deeper faith within man. Knowledge does not save us. But content helps a relationship to take on form and purpose.

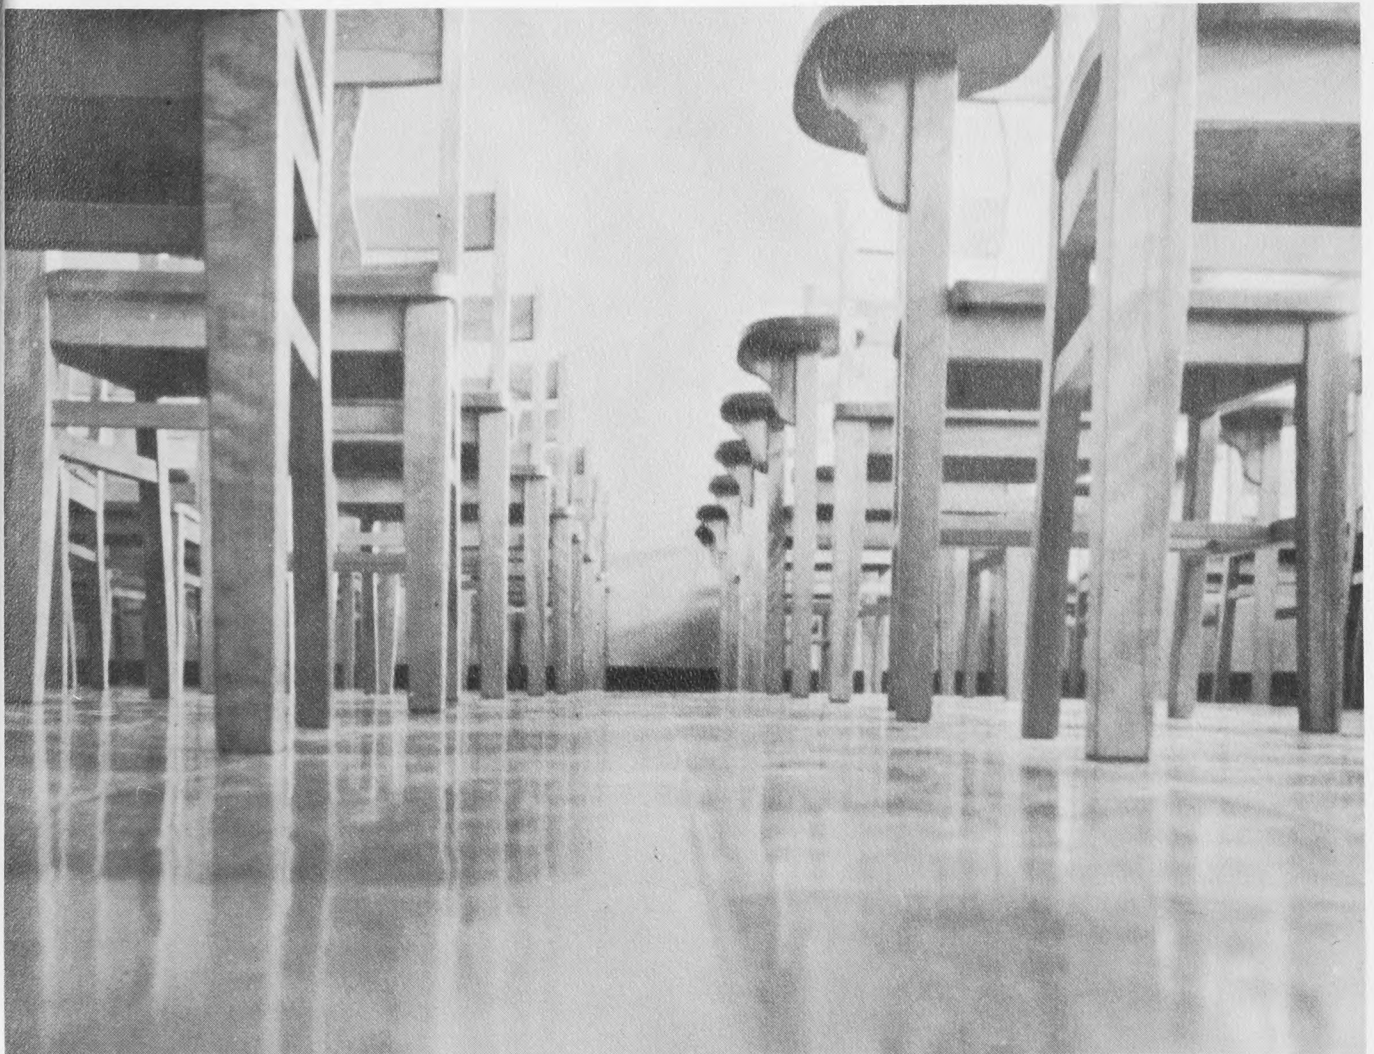

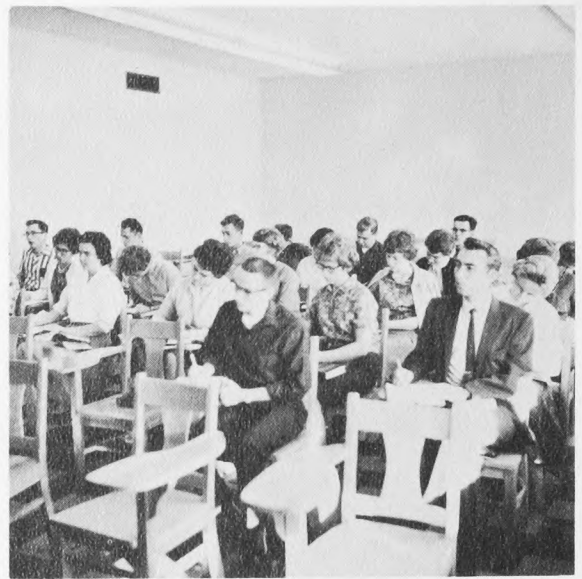

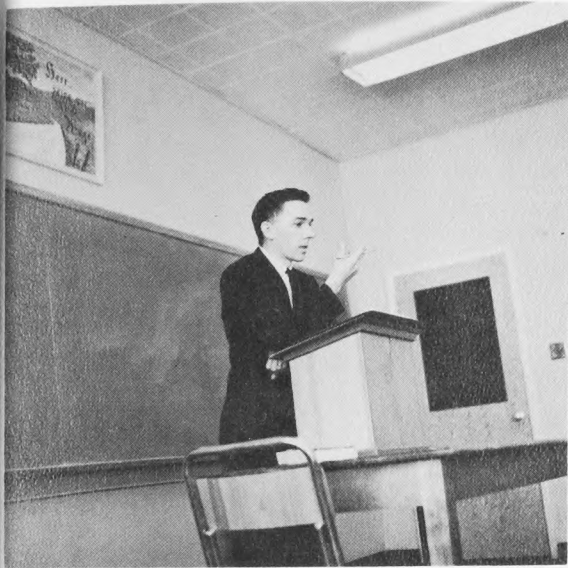

At CMBC we look upon intellectual development as preparation for service.

ENCOUNTER THROUGH SOCIAL INTERACTION

Healthy social relationships are vital to Christian living. God wills that man relate to man in community so that through oneness He might be glorified.

Others help us to see ourselves as God sees us. We need others.

COMPETITIVE INTERACTION

SOCIAL SCENES

AFTER-MEETING

ENCOUNTER THROUGH ARTISTIC EXPRESSION

Man has an innate need for self-expression. The disciplined development of artistic abilities gives us freedom. This freedom helps us to communicate more meaningfully with God and man.

To gain their full worth the fine arts must be used to express faith.

ENCOUNTER IN SERVICE

Through service others see God. In serving we encounter Him. Service is the thank-offering of an encounter with God. "Let it be acceptable in Thy sight, O Lord." At CMBC we have many opportunities to extend a cup of cold water.

I WAS A STRANGER ...

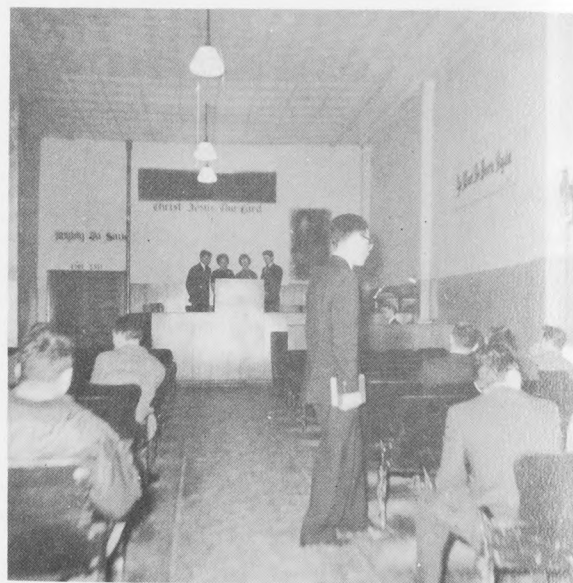

I WAS SICK ...

I WAS LOST ...

SUFFER THE LITTLE CHILDREN ...

WE HAVE A MINISTRY

ENCOUNTER IN WORSHIP

The centre for man's fulfillment lies outside himself. He needs to be one with God. This unity is fulfilled only in the worship of God. Man's greatest need on all levels of experience is to encounter God in worship.

The student at CMBC does so through intellectual exercise, through social interaction, through artistic expression, through service opportunities and through devotional meetings. God sent His Son to fill these diverse experiences with significant life-meaning. For this, let us bow down and worship Him.
